

Fabrizio Di Amato

Fabrizio Di Amato, appointed Knight of Labor (Cavaliere del Lavoro) - one of Italy's highest honors for distinguished business leaders - in 2016, is the Founder, Chairman and majority shareholder of MAIRE, a group listed on the Milan Stock Exchange and one of the leading international players in advanced engineering, sustainable technologies and industrial transformation.

Under his leadership, MAIRE has evolved into a global group that develops and delivers technology, engineering and project execution solutions, supporting the decarbonization of industrial processes and the energy transition. Through NEXTCHEM, the Group company dedicated to green technologies and sustainable chemistry, MAIRE has become a leading player in the development of industrial solutions for the circular economy, waste valorization, low-carbon fuels and next-generation energy carriers.

A graduate in Political Science from Sapienza University of Rome and the recipient of an Honorary Degree in Chemical Engineering from Politecnico di Milano, Fabrizio Di Amato began his entrepreneurial journey at the age of nineteen. Over more than four decades, he has led an outstanding growth trajectory, transforming a small entrepreneurial venture into a global industrial group through a strategy centered on innovation, organic growth, targeted acquisitions and internationalization. Among the main transactions completed under his leadership are the acquisitions of Fiat Engineering (2004), Tecnimont (2005), Tecnimont India (2007), Stamicarbon (2009) and KT-Kinetics Technology (2010), which progressively expanded the Group's technological and engineering capabilities. In 2018, he spearheaded the creation of NEXTCHEM, now a leading technology platform, further enhanced through subsequent strategic acquisitions including Conser (2023), GasConTec, HyDEP and APS (2024), and Ballestra (2026).
